

Breast Cancer Awareness

Early Detection Saves Lives

Mammograms have helped lower the number of people who died from breast cancer in the United States by 40%.

Breast cancer screening exams are designed to identify cancer at early stages, when it is more easily and successfully treated.

Women 40 years years old or older should have an annual mammogram. All screening results are kept completely confidential and will not be shared with your employer or union group.

To schedule a mammogram, please scan QR code here.

Memorial Sloan Kettering
Cancer Center